

On February 1, 2018, Barbara Biggs (Barb) became the General Manager of the Roxborough Water & Sanitation District, located in unincorporated Douglas County. Barb is responsible for ensuring the District provides quality drinking water and wastewater service for its residents, 365 days a year, 24/7.

Prior to joining Roxborough, she served as the Client Service Leader for CDM Smith's Denver office. Until September 2014, she managed the Governmental Affairs and Water Quality Division for the Metro Wastewater Reclamation District in Denver, Colorado. Barb was with the Metro District for over 20 years and was responsible for all aspects of the District's federal, state and local governmental and legislative and regulatory affairs as well as the District's water quality monitoring and assessment activities.

Barb graduated from the University of Colorado, Cum Laude, with a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration. She has extensive experience in municipal and special district finance. Barb has previously served three terms on the Colorado Water Conservation Board and two terms on the Water and Wastewater Facility Operators Certification Board. She is serving a second term (expires 2/19) on the Colorado Water Quality Control Commission.
